Migration Governance in a historical perspective
Montreal Cleveringa Conference 2017

Prof.dr. Marlou Schrover
Professor in Economic and Social History
Leiden University

Date: Wednesday, November 1st, 2017
Time: 17:00 – 19:00
17:00 Arrival*
17:30 Opening of the Cleveringa Conference by Prof. Jo-Anne Wemmers
17:35 Guest speaker Prof.dr. Marlou Schrover
19:00 Closing
* Refreshments and light snacks will be served

Location: Pavillon Lionel-Groulx, local C-3061
3150, rue Jean-Brillant (Montréal)

RSVP before October 22nd.
Send e-mail to:
cicc@umontreal.ca

Profile of the speaker
Marlou Schrover is full time professor in Economic and Social History at Leiden University, with a special interest in migration history. In 2013 she concluded a large NWO-vici project on differences between men and women in migration to the Netherlands after 1945.

History of the Cleveringa Lecture
The Cleveringa Lecture derives its name from Rudolph Cleveringa, LL.M., Professor of Commercial Law and Civil Procedural Law, and Dean of the Faculty of Law during the Second World War. He acquired fame as a consequence of his speech on 26 November 1940 in which he denounced the measures taken by the Nazis to remove Jewish professors from the University. He was twice imprisoned by the Germans during the course of the war. The Leids Universiteits Fonds (LUF) organizes Cleveringa Lectures annually since 1946 in cooperation with regional committees to commemorate his famous protest speech. Leiden scientists worldwide hold interesting lectures on current scientific topics around November 26th.